Simple Thoughts From Scripture

This world is filled with choices. Choices, however, are not without consequences. If one makes good choices then the likelihood will be that he will enjoy a good result. The reverse is also true. If one makes bad choices generally the outcome will be bad. Sadly the world seemingly does not perceive this simple truth. Men think they can do the same things and get different results.

Solomon, in the wisdom given him by God, observed, "If the righteous will be recompensed on the earth, How much more the ungodly and the sinner." Proverbs 11:31. This verse says that God is involved in the affairs of this earth. Those who are righteous have the right to expect that God will bless them as He has promised. On the other hand, those who do evil should expect problems. Solomon would go on to say in chapter 13, "Good understanding gains favor, But the way of the unfaithful is hard." Proverbs 13:15. Paul offered the positive side of this, "For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to evil. Do you want to be unafraid of the authority? Do what is good, and you will have praise from the same." Romans 13:3. Make good choices and you will be pleased with the outcome! T.L.

Miracles in Mark: Discouraged but Undeterred

As Mark recorded his account of the gospel, he gave special attention to the miracles of Jesus. Jesus proved his authority time and time again, but time and time again, people hardened their hearts and refused to accept Him.

In chapter 6, we read of Jesus feeding five thousand people with just five loaves and two fish. And yet, even after this amazing miracle, his apostles were still "utterly astounded" at His next miracle of walking on the water.

Following this night on the lake with the apostles, Jesus healed many sick from all over the entire region (Mark 6:53-56). Surely people would start to understand who He was... but no. Chapter seven begins with yet another discussion with the Pharisees, who continually refused to accept His evidence.

So what did Jesus do next? He left Galilee, and went to Tyre and Sidon (a region with a much larger Gentile population). Mark 7:24 indicates that he went here to get away from the Pharisees and be alone with his disciples for a time.

While in Tyre, Jesus' next miracle stands in stark contrast to the previous chapter and a half. There was a Syrophenician woman (a Gentile) whose daughter had an unclean spirit. When she heard Jesus was in town, she went to him and "begged him to cast the demon out of her daughter."

Jesus didn't immediately heal the woman's daughter. In fact, his response could have been very discouraging for this desperate mother to hear. He told her, "Let the children be fed first, for it is not right to take the children's bread and throw it to the dogs." Jesus used this illustration to point out that He had come first to the Jews, and therefore would not heal the Gentile woman's daughter.

But the determined mother refused to be deterred. She wittily retorted, "Yes, Lord; yet even the dogs under the table eat the children's crumbs." Because of this statement of undeterred faith in Jesus' power, Jesus then told the woman to go her way, because the demon had left her daughter.

The apostles, Jesus' closest followers, hardened their hearts to Jesus' miraculous power. The Pharisees, the religious elite of the day, refused to give up their traditions to accept clearly demonstrated power of Jesus. But this Gentile woman, even when faced with discouragement, refused to deny Jesus as her only hope.

Jesus' blessings are not limited to those who grew up going to church their whole lives. Neither are they limited to only the religious scholars in this world. Here in Mark 7, Jesus illustrated that He would be willing to bless anyone, regardless of their background. Jesus only requires that we remain undeterred in our commitment to Him, even when faced with discouragement.
